Champagne

Champagne Pierre Paillard

In 1768, Antoine Paillard purchased a few acres in Bouzy in the heart of the Champagne region of France. 8 generations later, these wines have become not only some of the most value driven bottlings in the region but also some of the most beautifully made. All the wines are crafted from fruit grown in Grand Cru rated vineyards, the highest level of production, and meticulously aged in their 19th century cellars. Father Benoit and his 2 sons Antoine and Quentin now oversee the house and the winemaking.

'Les Parcelles', Grand Cru, Extra Brut, NV $96

'Les Parcelles', Grand Cru, Extra Brut, NV Magnum $200

A Blend of 22 plots or parcels, this is 60/40 Pinot Noir to Chardonnay and spends 4 years on the lees in the bottle. A very classic style- fuller bodied with crisp green pear and a touch of toasty aromas.

'Les Mottelletes', Blanc de Blancs, 2010 $130

'Les Maillerettes', Blanc de Noirs, 2010 $130

Since 2007 these 2 single vineyard bottlings have been showing the purity of their respective varieties. They are vineyards known as 'mother plots,' because the fruit is so revered that they use cuttings from them to plant new plots. The blanc de blancs is classic chardonnay with green apple and lemon creme, and the blanc de noirs shows white cherry and almond blossom notes with a pie crust like yeasty finish.

'La Grande Recolte', Grand Cru Millésime, Extra Brut, 2006 $145

With 9 years spent aging in the bottle, this blend of 50/50 Pinot Noir to Chardonnay is full of spiced golden apple, brioche and almond with a long, dry orange zest finish.

'Les Terres Roses', Grand Cru, Rosé, NV $112

A higher percentage of chardonnay gives this rose a natural citrus lift while the addition of barrel aged pinot noir to the blend brings a hint of cinnamon to the cranberry and pomegranate flavors. Medium bodied and with well-balanced dryness.

Loire Valley

Alphonse Mellot

The Mellot family has a long and storied history in winemaking that dates back to the 16th century. Local records name the family as vine growers and wine merchants in documents from 1513; in 1698, César Mellot was appointed Wine Advisor to Louis XIV. Then at the beginning of the 19th century, Alphonse Mellot opened a tavern in Sancerre, where one could enjoy a selection of local wines. In 1881, he was granted a license to ship his wine throughout France and all over the world. The rest, you could say, is history.

Alphonse Mellot, Sauvignon Blanc, 'La Moussiere', Sancerre, 2015 $70

Named for the Domaine de la Moussiere which is the cornerstone of their house, it is made from mostly younger vines and is the most crisp and citrusy of the lineup.

Alphonse Mellot, Sauvignon Blanc, 'Generation XIX', Sancerre, 2013 $145

Name for the celebration of the 19th generation of Mellot winemakers, this is made from 87 year old vines and is the smallest production. The wine spends a year in large oak barrels but does not show overt oaky flavors but instead layers of toasted almond and meyer lemon with a citrus pith dry finish

Alphonse Mellot, Sauvignon Blanc, 'Edmond', Sancerre, 2014 $150

The richest and most powerful of the trio, 'Edmond' is from the same vineyard parcel as the others but is aged entirely in smaller oak barrels, with about 60% new. Lively and bright but with a rich weight.

Domaine des Comtes Lafon

When Jules Lafon married Marie Boch in 1894, their union came with vineyard holdings from her family in Meursault. It would be 2 more generations until the domaine would come to prominence when Rene Lafon came back from Paris and set about replanting and reconditioning the vineyards that had been controlled by sharecroppers. In 1984, Dominique Lafon took the reins and in 1987 he began to regain the family vineyards from his grandfather's leases. Dominique is one of the most significant and respected winemakers in Burgundy and he has helped to change the landscape both in France as well as abroad. His wines are always incredibly nuanced and textured with a balance of acidity and minerality that speaks to the vineyards themselves.

Alsace

Trimbach

The Trimbach family dates back to the year 1626 in Ribeauvillé, Alsace. They are considered as one of the most elegant and pristine producers of terroir driven wines in the world. Currently on the 13th generation of family winemakers and continuing to produce mind bending examples of Alsatian varietals. The Cuvée Frédéric Emile has been produced since 1967 and is listed in every French Michelin three star restaurant. The Clos Sainte Hune is considered by many enthusiasts as the "Montrachet of Alsace". In any case, these are all prime examples of how terroir can be showcased in a bottle of wine in a manner of which to make you smile with every taste.

Trimbach, Riesling, 'Frédéric Emile', 2007 $150

Named after Frédéric who became famous for providing a guarantee for quality. The marl-limestone-sandstone and fossil flecked soil lend this wine a remarkable personality.

Trimbach, Riesling, 'Geisberg', Grand Cru 2011 $175

The First Grand Cru of Trimbach which was released as the 2009 vintage. With just over 5 acres total production area, this offering from Trimbach is extremely rare and proves to be a great example of how Grand Cru Riesling from Alsace is truly mesmerizing with its showcase of minerality.

Trimbach, Riesling, 'Clos Sainte Hune', Grand Cru, 2007 $540

This exceptional wine is a product of the terroir of the Rosacker vineyard and has been part of the Trimbach family for more than 200 years. The family keeps the bottle 5 years in the cellar before release. Very tight mineral notes with mint, lime, white flowers and truffle notes.

PINOT NOIR

Peay Vineyards

One day, about 13 years ago at our tasting group in San Francisco, a sandy haired guy walked in with a huge grin and a bottle of wine. Many Saturdays later, we found out Andy Peay was starting his own winery when he brought in an unlabeled bottle for us to try and we all went gaga for it. 'Wait what? Are you serious?,' I asked as we kept smelling the chardonnay in our glass, trying to grasp that we had never even thought to ask where Andy showed up from, we just loved having him in the group and the friendship we had all formed. He told us that in 1996 he and his brother Nick had bought an old sheep ranch and apple farm on the Sonoma Coast and amidst the fog and Pacific ocean breezes, they decided to plant grapes and see how the journey that brought them together would turn out. We learned about his partner in crime and brother Nick the winegrower, who worked before, during, and after schooling at Schramsberg, La Jota, Newton, and as assistant wine maker at Storrs in the Santa Cruz Mountains as well as their winemaker Vanessa Wong who had become the third part of family as well as Nick's wife. She joined Peay Vineyards for their first vintage in 2001 after her tenure as winemaker at Peter Michael Winery as well as time working in France at Château Lafite-Rothschild in Pauillac and Domaine Jean Gros in Vosne-Romanée as well as in California at Hirsch Winery and Franciscan. Peay has played a very large part in the story of my career as I have watched their wines gain the amazing attention they deserve and I have been so fortunate to support them along the way. They now find a new home at Mirabelle and I could not be more thrilled to continue the story!

Ama

$130

In the Kashaya language of the Pomo people, Ama means "land or place," and Pomo thrived in this region of the Pacific Coast for millennia. This blend is often bright, floral, earthy and non-fruit oriented and fits in between the muscle of Pomarium and the intellect of Scallop Shelf with aromas of cherries, minerals, spice and a touch of smoke.

Pomarium

$140

Pomarium is Latin for apple orchard and the vineyard was once planted to acres of apple trees; some for eating, some for drying, some for making cider. It is the more broad-shouldered, masculine cuvee and the fruit flavors lean to dark berry and plum notes with a fuller mouth feel and an earthy finish redolent of the surrounding forests

Scallop Shelf

The Pomo names the knoll that the vineyards lie on 'where scallops lie,' and indeed their hilltop was a former sea bed uplifted about 5-7 million years ago along the neighboring San Andreas Fault which created the bedrock of the Pacific Coast Ridges 250 million years ago. This is the most feminine of the blends with notes of dried roses, cherry blossoms and jasmine tea followed by pomegranate and orange rind on the nose to provide lift and prettiness.
