Champagne

Bérêche

Originally from Hungary, the Bérêche family came to Champagne in the early 19th century. Brothers Raphaël and Vincent have worked as the 5th generation, farming organically and have since begun biodynamics. Key factors in the vineyards are slow fermentation in oak barrels, unfiltered and even manual disgorging. The family is a grower/producer and owns property in Montagne de Reims and Vallée de Marne producing intensely flavored, mineral driven with balanced ripe fruit and with terroir distinction.

Brut Reserve, 1er Cru, Ludes NV $100

A blend of 70% wines from the base year with the balance reserve wines. The three major grapes are used in the blend with equal parts. A pure expression of terroir.

Cru Selectionnes, ‘Cote,’ Grand Cru, Extra Brut 2007 $200

Highlights the specific terroirs of various villages, considered a ‘micro-negotiant.’ Clean, crisp and mineral driven with bright apple notes.

Campania Remensis, Brut, Rose NV $180

Named after the common Roman translation for the countryside surrounding Reims. It is also from a single vineyard in the village of Ormes, just west of Reims in the petite Montagne. The blend is two thirds Pinot Noir with the remainder Chardonnay.

Reflét D’Antan, 1er Cru NV $240

Arguably the most original of the lineup with equal parts Pinot Noir, Chardonnay and Pinot Meunier. Wine is drawn from a solera of 600-liter barrels begun in 1985. The result is a rivetingly complex Champagne that seamlessly marries endless richness, texture and depth with a high degree of freshness and lift.

WHITE WINES

FRANCE

Loire Valley

Alphonse Mellot

The Mellot family has a long and storied history in winemaking that dates to the 16th century. Local records name the family as vine growers and wine merchants in documents from 1513; in 1698, César Mellot was appointed Wine Advisor to Louis XIV. Then at the beginning of the 19th century, Alphonse Mellot opened a tavern in Sancerre, where one could enjoy a selection of local wines. In 1881, he was granted a license to ship his wine throughout France and all over the world. The rest, you could say, is history.

Alphonse Mellot, Sauvignon Blanc, 'La Moussiere,' Sancerre 2016 $70

Named for the Domaine de la Moussiere which is the cornerstone of their house, it is made from mostly younger vines and is the most crisp and citrusy of the lineup.

Alphonse Mellot, Sauvignon Blanc, 'Generation XIX,' Sancerre 2013 $145

Name for the celebration of the 19th generation of Mellot winemakers, this is made from 87-year-old vines and is the smallest production. The wine spends a year in large oak barrels but does not show overt oaky flavors but instead layers of toasted almond and meyer lemon with a citrus pith dry finish

Alphonse Mellot, Sauvignon Blanc, 'Edmond,' Sancerre 2014 $150

The richest and most powerful of the trio, 'Edmond' is from the same vineyard parcel as the others but is aged entirely in smaller oak barrels, with about 60% new. Lively and bright but with a rich weight.

Meursault

Domaine des Comtes Lafon

When Jules Lafon married Marie Boch in 1894, their union came with vineyard holdings from her family in Meursault. It would be 2 more generations until the domaine would come to prominence when Rene Lafon came back from Paris and set about replanting and reconditioning the vineyards that had been controlled by sharecroppers. In 1984, Dominique Lafon took the reigns and in 1987 he began to regain the family vineyards from his grandfather's leases. Dominique is one of the most significant and respected winemakers in Burgundy and he has helped to change the landscape both in France as well as abroad. His wines are always incredibly nuanced and textured with a balance of acidity and minerality that speaks to the vineyards themselves.

The Pinot Noirs of Lingua Franca- A life time's search comes to fruition in the Willamette Valley

These are the first vintage of wines being crafted at Lingua Franca in the Eola-Amity Hills AVA in Willamette Valley of Oregon. Larry Stone started his wine making venture with a label called 'Sirita,' named for his daughter Siri and made with Kathy Corison at her winery in Napa. He went on to explore the potential of different properties in the Red Mountain AVA in Washington State before he started working for Evening Land Vineyards where they had an amazing vineyard called 'Seven Springs.' It just so happened that the property across the road became available and after Evening Land passed on the opportunity to purchase the land, Larry was contacted by the owners who asked if he would be interested himself. After more than a decade of looking for the perfect site, the universe opened the door for what would become Larry Stone Vineyards and Lingua Franca. Larry brought in the extremely talented Thomas Savre and the amazing Dominique Lafon joined on as well. 2015 is the first vintage of the estate wines as well as the bottlings from vineyards he has come to know and respect- the stories of those that helped bring this dream to fruition, both with their selfless hardwork as well as those that grow the grapes, are told below with Larry's personal descriptions.

AVNI, Eola-Amity Hills 2015

$85

"AVNI is a Stone family name and means 'rock' or 'stone.' This pinot reflects the complex flavor profile of the Eola-Amity hills fruit, born of volcanic soils on hillside vineyards and sourced primarily from our neighbors in Hopewell. The wine is medium bodied with floral, mineral and red cherry and black plum fruit tones as a long silky finish."

Joshua, Junichi and Siri, Ribbon Ridge 2015

$105

"This cuvée is named in honor of three people who volunteered to help us through our first harvest and whose dedication made possible these wines. We name this Ribbon Ridge cuvée in their honor because of the hard work taken in sorting this fruit picked from the same vineyard on the same day from a hail-damaged site. The fruit was harvested from the same vineyard on the same day, but about 50% of the fruit has been rigorously sorted and then fermented whole cluster, and the remaining clusters were individually inspected, trimmed by hand or discarded before being destemmed and fermented separately.

Ryan's Plow, Willamette Valley 2015

$125

"Ryan's Plow is comprised of the fruit from two vineyards that the talented viticulturist from Australia, Ryan Hannaford, farmed for several years before we came on the scene. He worked with Dominique Lafon at Evening Land where he developed a deep understanding of organic and biodynamic farming practices. He was generous in finding fruit sources for us in our first year. Both vineyards are located on prime Jory/Nekia soils, one in Dundee (Black Walnut) and the other next door to Lingua Franca (Seven Springs). The Seven Springs fruit is the Calera Clone and we fermented that partially whole cluster, having to cut each bunch in half by hand at the sorting table, with the shoulders being destemmed and the "hens and chicks" tip of the clusters being thrown into the tank in alternating layers with the destemmed fruit. Lots of work! The fruit from Black Walnut was very easy to sort and it was mainly destemmed, being comprised of PN115 and Pommard clones. This was also one of the earliest cuvées to come together."

Mimi's Mind, Eola-Amity Hills 2015

$185

"Mimi Casteel's beautifully maintained vineyard is a product of her creative and unique farming practices. However, they are grounded in a very thoughtful--philosophical and scientific--study of natural farming practices that include Biodynamic and organic, but escape any single categorization. You may see her pruning in winter while her dwarf sheep, herded by a prized lama, are keeping the flowers and grasses around the vineyard trimmed. The balance of life in her vineyard is obvious to anyone open to the natural world around, with little apparent intervention necessary on her part, except to provide the minimal amount of spraying required to fight fungus in a wet year. We love the example this vineyard sets for us, because it is just above the town on Hopewell, sloping to the east, and has a little wash of Woodburn soils at the bottom of the vineyard that graduate up into Nekia and Jory—similar to the situation at Lingua Franca. We hope to learn from her example. This is the finest expression of our series of wines this year. Deeply flavored with complex interplay of mineral, floral and fruit elements, with spice, truffles, savory herbs and 'tension' so important to a vibrant wine. The finish goes on and carries the complex of flavors to the end, diminishing ever so slowly. It is a wine to contemplate.

California

PINOT NOIR

Soliste

The name Soliste is derived from the Burgundy tradition of saving the special barrel or 'soliste' for friends and family. The first vintage was of the Sonatera Vineyard in 2005 and with that vintage it became an overnight success. It was not, however, a huge surprise. With Claude Koeberle as the winemaker, it was destined to be great. Raised in Burgundy with several generations of chefs and winemakers, Claude followed his dreams of becoming a chef. At a young age, he apprenticed with some of the best such as Paul Bocuse and Alain Chapel, both Michelin 3-star Chefs in Paris. While perfecting the culinary trade, Claude would also apprentice in the local vineyards and would become friends with the talented winemakers. Some of which would influence his winemaking and passion for achieving excellence in viticulture. Potentially his most influential was the great Didier Dagueneau who taught him the importance of every thought in the vineyard. Eventually, he found his way to California and has become an organic farmer first and foremost but from that, he has also revealed Soliste. All the wines are made with an attention to organics and sustainability and are typically made with a single clone that he has trademarked as 'Monoclone.' From that very first vintage derived from the Sonatera vineyard, it has become an iconic vision of what California winemaking has to offer the world. Soliste wines are elegant and complex with a sense of terroir and purpose. He has become a great friend of everyone he ever meets and his wines are consistently admired by and snatched up by all that get to meet him. We are focusing on Soliste Pinot Noir's, however, please note that his Chardonnay's, Sauvignon blancs and Syrah are also available.

Les Griottes 2012

$265

The homage to the greatest Burgundy styles and translates to tart cherry. A true show stopper of a wine with notes of spiced cherries and redwood forest. Subtle yet complex and as it sits in the glass layers of spice and truffles with a stronger yet elegant burst of cherry.

Sonatera 2011

$175

The vineyard that started it all. This bottling is much more spice driven with notes of rose petal, and a robust nature that is still velvety on the palate.

Narcisse 2014

$82

A wine made solely for restaurants and is considered the more fleshy, concentrated California style. It is a blend of many Soliste vineyards and is considered as a prime example of the detail that is pursued by the winemakers.
