Champagne Boizel

In 1831, a young Auguste Boizel married Julie Martin, a descendant of a long line of winegrowers established in Aÿ since the 16th century, and created a revolutionary House for the times, Boizel-Martin promoting both of their names. For 800 francs, they bought a site in 1853 in Epernay and began the digging of their cellars in the chalky slopes in 1858, which would also become their family home. Five generations later, Florent and Lionel have begun to take the reigns and lead the charge of their family's heritage. These wines are born of the chalk laden soil and fickle climate of Epernay and harness the dedication of winemaking passed down for almost 200 years. We are very excited to showcase a varied lineup of their spectacular wines!

Rosé NV $130

A very crisp and delicate rosé that begins with notes of cranberries and cherry blossom but carries through with dried apricots and red apple skin from the balance of chardonnay in the wine. When it comes time to blend, the addition of a small proportion of Pinot Noir from Champagne's best terroirs for red wines – Cumières and Les Riceys – gives the wine its beautiful color and subtle aromas of alpine strawberries and Rainier cherries.

Blanc de Blancs NV $160

A blend of chardonnay from Premier and Grand Cru vineyards from the Côte des Blancs where each Cru adds a special attribute. This is a classic and pure Blanc de Blancs; mineral focused with kaffir lime leaf, white floral and lemon peel aromas balanced with flavors of crisp green apple and marcona almonds and a long, lime peel and nectarine driven finish.

Ultimé, Extra Brut NV $188

Predominantly pinot noir and chardonnay with a touch of pinot meunier, this wine has no dosage, or sweetener, added. Although younger extra brut styles can come off as acerbic and bitter, after 6-8 years of aging on the lees this wine has developed amazing depth of flavor that is enhanced by Meyer lemon curd and pastry crust aroma that remains on the palate.

Grand Vintage 2007 $200

Single vintage Champagne is one of the rarest wines in the world, and this one sings with white peach, Bosc pear and roasted green apples. After 7 years in the bottle and a small percentage of the wine being aged in oak, the texture is supple yet nuanced, balancing the toasty flavors of almond skin and biscuits with a light orange blossom and dried quince aroma.

Joyau de France 2000 $315

The 'Tête de Cuvée,' or highest bottling of the house, the Joyau is aged for 12 years on the lees and has 10% of the base aged in small oak barrels. There is a beautiful nose of toasted hazelnuts and pineapple that belies the acidity and complexity on the palate. This is a truly vinous wine, with amazing texture and an incredibly long, silky finish. It opens and evolves in the glass over time and shows notes of lemon verbena and persimmon mingled with ripe red apple.

Rhône Valley

JEAN- BAPTISTE SOUILLARD, NORTHERN RHONE VALLEY, FRANCE

Jean-Baptiste Souillard knew his future belonged amongst the vines and cellars and he closely followed his father's work as the director of the region's largest cooperative, Cave de Saint-Desirat.

His father also had his own vineyard where Jean-Baptiste walked by his side taking it all in and imagining the day when he himself would make wine. He set out to learn as much as possible about the subject and after receiving six diplomas in wine studies (with distinguished honors) he went to expand his horizons with stages in Australia and New Zealand as well as a position at Chateau Latour in Bordeaux. But it was his internship working with Benjamin Leroux at Comte Armand in Pommard that truly changed the way he thought about crafting wines of his own. He was so taken by the Burgundian belief and practice of making wine from individual terroirs, that after returning home to the Northern Rhône, he was disillusioned with the trend of blending vineyards. The next 5 years was spent working with some of the most famous producers' wines from the region as a consulting oenologist in a lab in Cornas and he finally reached his wit's end. So, as quoted by Becky Wasserman, 'he decided to found a micro-négoce, "a small chez moi", says Jean-Baptiste, where "I generally follow the 'Cistercian method,' One parcel = one wine."

His first vintage was 2014 and we are so thrilled and proud to have a selection of his exquisite wines at Mirabelle!

Crozes-Hermitage 2016

$85

From 2 parcels at the extreme northern limit of the village appellation. Medium bodied with dark cherry and plum notes balanced by dusty tannins and a lingering minerality. Restrained up front but becomes more generous with air.

Crozes-Hermitage, 'Les Baties' 2016

$100

Sitting at the top of a hill on the back side of the Hill of Hermitage, the vineyards face a cool, east-facing valley and are planted in granite which contributes to the endless floral aromatics this wine exudes. Although it is a dark and rich wine, with classic notes of grilled meats and dried herbs, it has a length and freshness on the palate that is amazing.

Côte Rôtie, 'Tartaras' 2015

$190

From a .12 acre vineyard, planted on a high altitude and schist soil, the harvest is very late and this contributes to the intensity and complexity of this Syrah. This is the leaner wine of the two Côte Rôties, all elegance and floral femininity on the nose, with the stony notes from the soil carrying through the bright fruit finish.

Côte Rôtie, 'Coteaux de Bassenon' 2015

$210

Located in the Cote Blond, which is the southernmost terroir of Côte Rôtie, the vines plunge deep in to the crumbled clay soil, locally known as 'arzel.' Because the soil is so decomposed, and the grade of the terraces so steep, the vines must be held in place by stone walls, or 'cheys.' For this reason, vine age is not as important and vines averaging 20-25 years create layers of flavor. The aromas lean towards lightly smoked meat and crushed berries with a rich mid palate of Niçoise olives and black plums.

Cornas, 'St. Pierre' 2015

$195

Situated at the 400 meters, the highest altitude in the center of the appellation, the grapes here are typically harvested 3 weeks later than most Cornas vineyards. High toned floral and mineral notes on the nose belie a richer texture on the palate that offers cassis and currants and a finish of fine grained, cocoa powder tannins
